NOTES

An exhibition page contains the following:

- title
- date range
- gallery location(s)
- optional top photo
- optional thumbnail (click to enlarge) photos (template rules stack these on the right)
- text description

The location for an exhibition page within the site is:
www.bowdoin.edu/art-museum/exhibitions/yyyy/title.shtml

Related materials to an exhibition page should be stored:
www.bowdoin.edu/art-museum/exhibitions/yyyy/title/
Where the "title" is now a folder name and the folder contains the related materials.

NOTES

Archive pages simply provide a place to browse older articles.

Mostly "archives" are a permanent structure for news so that links never break and are predictable.

This space will function a lot like it does today. A random one of 4 splash screens will appear when you visit.

The broad sketch is that we have a splash to link to each one of these:

1. Major Exhibition (Great Graphics)
  - linking to the exhibition page
  - > <http://www.bowdoin.edu/art-museum/exhibitions/2007/great-graphics.shtml>
2. Exhibits listing
  - > <http://www.bowdoin.edu/art-museum/exhibitions/>
3. Event/calendar page
  - > <http://www.bowdoin.edu/art-museum/calendar/>
4. Link to official PR on re-opening
  - > Link TBD

NOTES

For the future, we need to plan how this space will be used so we can build some mechanism to allow museum staff to update.

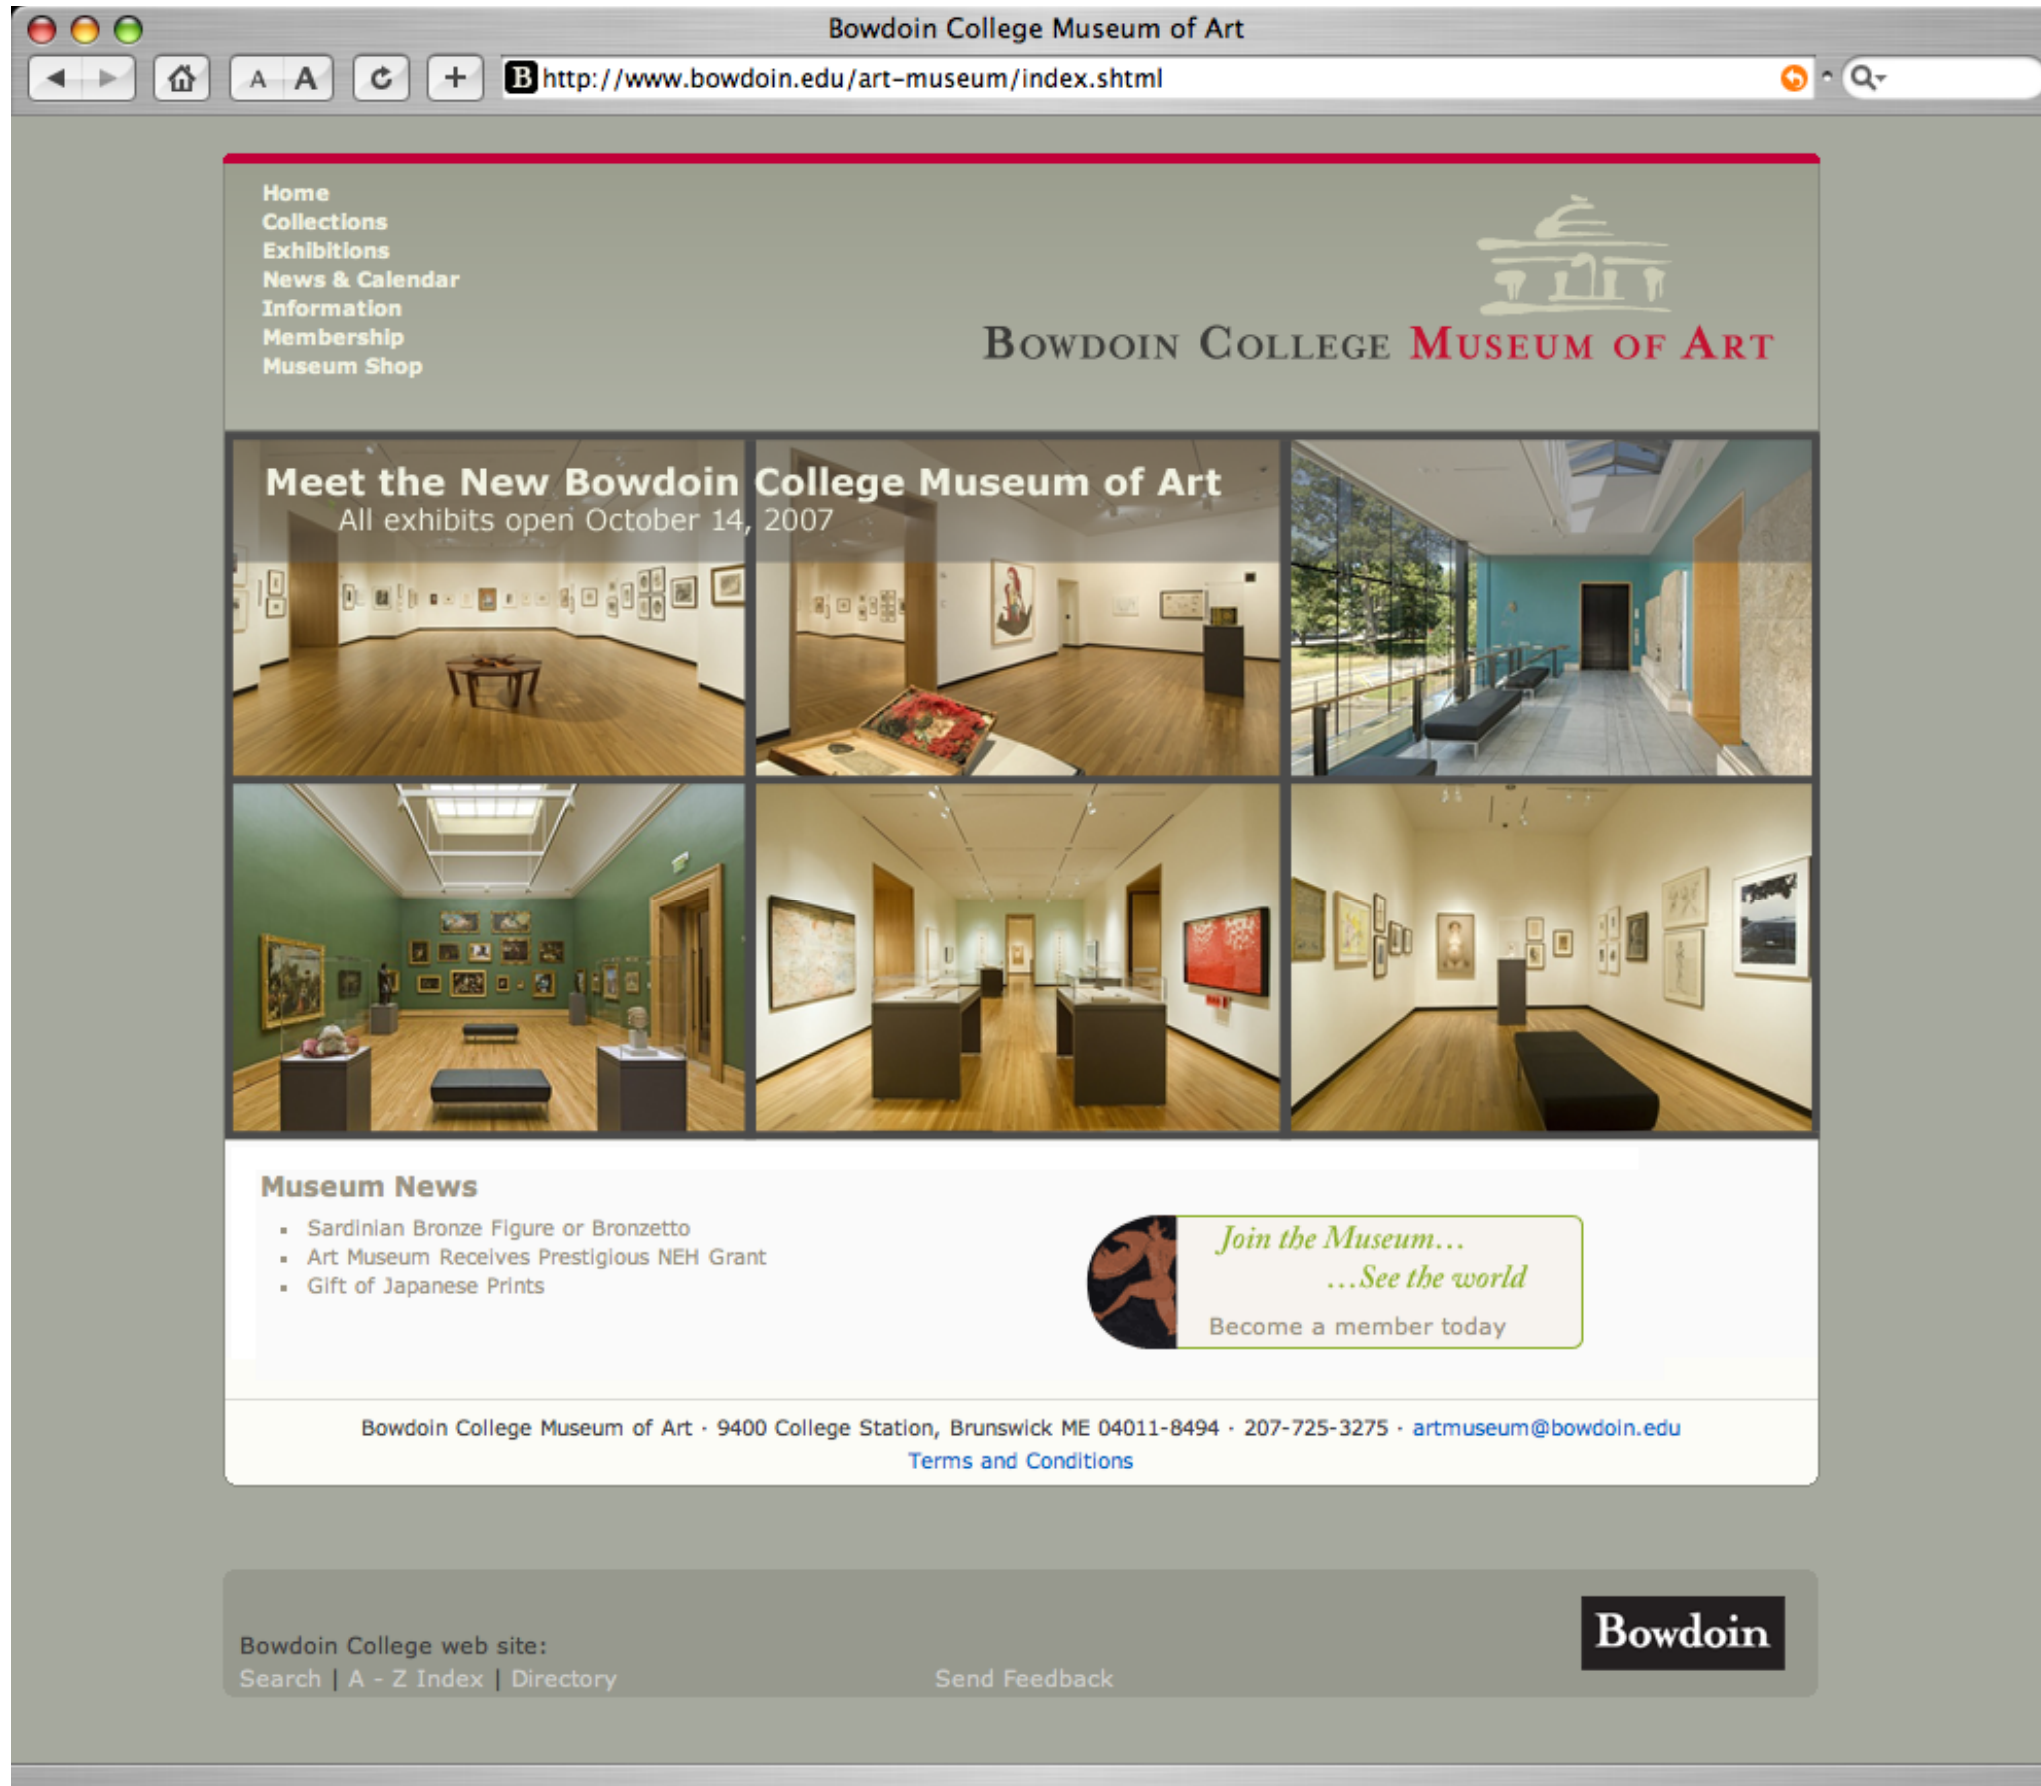

For the opening and short term this needs to be updated by Media and Design staff.
